Research Interest

Image Classification, Image Segmentation, Incremental Learning

Education

Nanyang Technological University (NTU) — July 2018 – Present
3rd year Ph.D. Student in Computer Science — Singapore

University of Science and Technology of China (USTC) — Sept. 2014 – June 2018
B.Eng. in Information Science and Technology — Anhui, China

Publications

Distilling Causal Effect of Data in Class-Incremental Learning. [arxiv] [code] — CVPR 2021
We proposed a causal framework to explain the catastrophic forgetting in Class-Incremental Learning (CIL) and then derive a novel distillation method that is orthogonal to the existing anti-forgetting techniques.

Learning to Segment the Tail. [arxiv] [code] — CVPR 2020
We proposed a "divide&conquer" strategy for the challenging large-scale long-tailed LVIS task: divide the whole data into balanced parts and then apply incremental learning to conquer each one.

Honors and Awards

Excellent Volunteer Prize — Mar. 2017
Recognition for to 20% of students in volunteering activities

Yang Ya Scholarship — Nov. 2016
Merit based scholarship for excellent woman students

Excellent Student Scholarship — Oct. 2016
Gold Award, top 3% of students in academics at USTC

Teaching Experience

Teaching Assistant/Lab Instructor — Fall 2021
20S1-CZ2001-LAB-SS7, Algorithms — NTU

Teaching Assistant — Spring 2020
19S1-CE1012-CZ1012, Engineering Mathematics II — NTU

Software Projects

Plenoptic Images Re-focusing System — 2016–2017
design a real-time system for plenoptic images to focus on every point the user clicks on (PC) or looks at (with the eye tracker)

Library Management System — Fall 2017
use MySQL and C# to design a library system for both administrators and users
